

On behalf of the American Association of Drilling Engineers Texas A&M University Student Section, we would like to invite you to the 2019 AADE Sporting Clays Tournament on February 23rd, 2019 at Tonkaway Ranch. We have previously enjoyed excellent industry support and participation and hope this year will be no different. This is an excellent opportunity for companies to meet students from the department and for students to interact with professionals in the industry.

By participating in this fundraiser, you and your organization will help students connect with industry, as well as provide funds that will go towards the operation of our student chapter. The two primary expenses we incur are related to field trips and professional training. The professional training in particular is viewed as very high value by our members. In the past, this has included IADC well control certification, HUET certification and stuck pipe training to name a few. While the training providers typically offer their services free of charge, there are usually additional expenses associated with each event which AADE must cover.

Below are the event details. We ask that you please fill out and return the provided form on the following page as soon as possible if you are interested in attending. Additional information on Tonkaway Ranch can be found at www.tonkaway.com.

Additional Information:

Tonkaway Ranch requires shooters to supply their own gun. Shells will be provided. Eye and ear protection is required. You may bring golf carts for personal transportation on the course. The stations are spaced within walking distance of each other, and we will have shuttles from the end of the course back to the beginning. If you have a disability, we will provide on-course transportation if requested.
