Well Operation Perils Discussed May 18 at AADE Luncheon

Barton of Brammer Engineering to Speak

The American Association of Drilling Engineers (AADE) Lafayette
Chapter will hold its next General Meeting at 11:30 a.m. Monday, May 18, 2015, at the Petroleum Club of Lafayette.

Mark E. Barton, PE, operations engineer with Brammer Engineering, Inc., will discuss “Well Operation Perils” at the final AADE Lafayette Chapter General Meeting of the 2014-2015 session. Attendees and their guests with reservations are $20, and walk-ins will be $25. RSVP online, email your RSVP or call 337-237-4406 by noon Friday, May 15.

Mark Barton was raised in Lafayette and is a proud graduate of Acadiana High School. He graduated from LSU with a bachelor’s degree in petroleum engineering in December 1983.

In 1988, Barton began working for Brammer Engineering, Inc., in Lafayette. He became a professional engineer in Louisiana in 1992. Barton left Brammer from 2000-2004 but has now been with them a total of 23 years handling South Louisiana and Texas operations on land and inland waters.

Barton is a current board member with the Lafayette Education Foundation and API Acadiana Chapter. He is also active with LAGCOE.

Scholarship Sporting Clays Tournament a Success

The AADE Lafayette Chapter held its 22nd Annual Scholarship Sporting Clays Tournament at GOL Shooting Facility in Maurice. Proceeds from the tournament provide petroleum industry-related scholarships at LSU, ULL and Nichols State University.

Hundreds of participants, sponsors and volunteers headed to the Maurice facility March 26 and 27 to participate in the two-day event. In spite of the downturn in the oil and gas industry, the event was well attended.
“Our 22nd sporting clays event was a success thanks to a dedicated committee and volunteers, generous sponsors and the ongoing support of participants in the oil and gas industry,” said Jeffery Svendson, AADE Sporting Clays committee chairman. “The AADE Lafayette Chapter is pleased to consistently host a top-notch shooting tournament and grateful for the scholarships and donations that the organization can provide with the proceeds raised from the event.”

Advertise in the AADE eNewsletter
The AADE Lafayette Chapter Board recently voted to discontinue the monthly newsletter in favor of an electronic only format of providing members information. Information on upcoming speakers and events will still come via email, as well as other information from AADE. The advertising options have changed to the following:

>>> Leaderboard 728px x 90px ($400)
>>> Skyscraper 160px x 600px ($300)
>>> Medium rectangle 300px x 250px ($200)
>>> Small rectangle (business card) 300px x 150px ($100)
John Dribus, global geosciences advisor for Schlumberger Oil Field Services, presented on potential drilling hazards in deep water at the AADE Lafayette Chapter General Meeting this month. Since the Macondo incident occurred in the Gulf of Mexico, the oil and gas industry has been diligent in addressing various drilling hazards that may be encountered in deep water. Dribus provided an information-packed overview on salt formations and potential drilling hazards.
