Our meeting in May featured Carl Diller from Northern Solutions, speaking on Innovative Equipment solutions; Rigless Quick Connect Liner Systems. The Northern Solutions Group has been working for the past 8 years helping BP develop unique equipment to meet the continued demand for cost effective well workovers. This particular presentation seemed to have generated quite a bit of interest, particularly with drilling and completions engineers, who are challenged with getting the job done in the field. If you would like more information on this system and didn't find the time for the presentation last month, you can find more about this equipment on their website: <http://northernsolutionsak.com/>

As a drilling engineering group our charter is to be the forum for the dissemination of practical drilling technology to those employed or interested in the drilling industry. To meet that goal we encourage you to let us know about speakers who would like to contribute to that goal. This coming year we plan on a presentation about Coil Cementing on the North Slope as another part of that process. Alaska is unique in being on the cutting edge of Coil related technology, in drilling and workovers. If you know someone who would like to speak on a drilling topic, please contact Stephen Lauper at slauper@slb.com to get on the speakers list.

We had a lot going on in May. We announced the winners of the 2105 Scholarship program and awarded $15,000 to 15 High school and College students. We had 50+ applicants for the Scholarships. Thanks to our very conscientious scholarship committee for taking the time to review all the applications and making recommendation for the awards.

The 13th Annual Fin Feather or Fur Food Festival.

We had 14 Cooking Teams and the food was well received by the crowd of around 800 people that braved the 70 degree weather. I noted some sun lotion being applied liberally during the afternoon. There was a spirited competition between the teams for the top honors and everyone had a great time.

American Association of Drilling Engineers Antitrust Policy

Background

The antitrust laws of the United States were enacted to prevent companies, or groups of companies, from engaging in unfair trade practices. One aspect of these laws deals with companies working together to restrict competition (collusion). Industry associations, by nature, call for companies to work together on various issues. It is not illegal for competitors to work together, unless in doing so they are restricting competition within a given industry. Because of this, various government bodies that are charged with enforcing the antitrust laws keep careful watch over industry organizations such as the American Association of Drilling Engineers ("AADE"). That is why it is important that all AADE meetings be conducted to avoid even the appearance that members have done anything improper. It is the responsibility of each member to avoid raising improper topics for discussion.

REMEMBER: Both your company and you as an individual can be prosecuted for violations of antitrust laws. A conviction for violating antitrust law may result in stiff fines for the association and its individual members and their employers, jail sentences for individuals who participated in the violation, a consent decree under which the association must operate or a court order disbanding the association.

Antitrust Policy

It is the policy of AADE to comply fully with all federal and state antitrust laws and neither AADE nor its facilities or systems may be used by any member for any improper or unlawful purpose.

Those participating in AADE activities at all levels, including work groups, project teams, steering committees, etc., need to proceed with caution to ensure against inadvertent violations of federal and state antitrust laws.

Agendas, minutes or other records of all meetings must be kept on file at AADE to document the topics discussed. The following topics should be strictly avoided in all discussions at AADE (a reminder will be read at the start of each meeting in the form of the attached statement):

Regarding your company's and/or your competitors:

Do not discuss current or future leasing or drilling plans that are not public record or unannounced.

Do not discuss any internal or confidential information on oil prices or forecasts.

Do not discuss confidential or proprietary leasing or drilling procedures or processes.

- Do not discuss leasing terms.
- Do not discuss controlling sales, leases or allocating properties.
- Do not discuss future leasing strategies.
- Do not discuss capacity or production forecasts.

Regarding your company's and/or your competitors' selection of their suppliers:

- Do not discuss refusing to deal with any company or supplier.
  - Do not discuss strategies or plans to award business or remove business from a specific company.
  - Do not discuss terms of sale of supplier contracts, supplier performance, or supplier bid rounds.

Regarding your company's and/or your competitors' trade secrets:

- Do not discuss trade secrets or confidential information of your company or any other member.
